

Verona is a classic upholstery leather with timeless appeal stemming from its many distinguishing traits – a finely grained hand, a subtly distressed texture and a waxy, glazed finish. As a pure aniline leather, Verona does not receive any additional pigment during its finishing process, allowing for a more natural product that will breathe, age and gradually develop a sophisticated patina and unique characteristics with time and use. This corrected top grain leather is produced on superior European hides to enable improved yields and large, clean cut sizes.
